A community united by faith in God and love to the neighbor

Dear Friends,

While much of the colorful foliage that begins the joys of fall have already passed, and the leaves are piling up in my yard, still the air is crisp and I am enjoying unpacking the scarves and sweaters, making plans for Thanksgiving pies and Sunday afternoon stews. Autumn is hands down my favorite time of year.

When I think about how much I love the fall, I can't help but consider the irony of loving the time of year when everything is dying. The leaves turn beautiful colors as they lose the green hue of aliveness and start to fall from their branches. The piles of pumpkins and apples being sold on the side of the road are the lucky ones that have been harvested, others lay fallen on the ground to rot and be eaten by roving critters.

This is the season of decay. And it is so beautiful.

The spirit of life that animates plants, animals and humans, comes in and goes out. Anything that is alive is born and dies, and in the middle grows, growth necessitating a constant series of births and deaths. We could perhaps call all of these processes "life," and yet we make a BIG differentiation between the two sides of the process, birth and death, one to be celebrated, one to be avoided.

But while this may be our natural experience of the two the spiritual reality that Swedenborg explains to us is that: "In a spiritual sense, by dying, resurrection is meant....Natural death is nothing else but resurrection; for when the body dies, a man rises as to his spirit; and thus death is only a continuation of his life." Apocalypse Explained n. 899. Birth and death, two sides of the same coin.

The part of our life span that centers around our end, our time of death, while most often feared, ignored, and denied, is a necessary, inevitable part of the journey of "aliveness." Could we consider it beautiful?

Death is with us from the moment of our birth. We experience daily small deaths, every time we change, watching die a younger self that a slightly older one might be born. This happens on a physical level as our cells are constantly being traded out, some dieing, others being created, so that roughly every seven years our whole body is "replaced," with new material. On a spiritual level this occurs as we choose to actively allow the deep transformation that regeneration requires, actively shunning the evil/unhealthy/cruel parts of our personality and familial heritage, actively letting and encouraging these parts to "die," to allow God to give us a new heart, new eyes, and "renew a right spirit within." Psalm 51:10.

The Fryeburg New Church aka The Church of the New Jerusalem

12 Oxford St. • Fryeburg, ME 04037 • Rev. Sage Currie, Pastor

Office: (207) 935-3413 • Email: Pastor@FryeburgNewChurch.org

Parsonage: (207) 935-4500, cell phone (207) 256-7529

Office Hours: Pastor ~ Wed thru Friday 8:30 a.m. – 12:30 p.m., Saturdays by appointment

Secretary ~ Monday thru Friday 8:30 a.m. – 10:30 a.m.

This leaves us with the basic truth that to be happy, to be fully "alive," we have to be willing to let ourselves change, and this necessitates a willingness to get comfortable with death.

And I say live! As we age, as we say goodbye, as we recognize our own mortality let us do all we can not to fear it, but to stay open to it's mysteries. We are a people that believe in eternal life, that means an eternity of births and deaths, it means a continuation, forever. We might as well lay back and become present, grateful, open to the ride.

Many blessings this autumn season!

Rev. Sage
